TO-DAY'S CABLES.

(Reuter's Service to the China Mail)

LEAGUE ASSEMBLY.

SURPRISING GERMAN MANDATE NOTE.

BRITISH ASTONISHED.

GENEVA, November 19.

The British section of the League Assembly at Geneva is astonished at the German Mandate Note (mentioned in our earlier cables), and points out that under Article 119 of the Treaty, Germany definitely renounces all rights of her colonies to the Allied and Associated Powers. Hence the present contention is difficult to understand as she has already signed away all her rights.

MONGOLIA.

THE YELLOW RIVER.

SCENES FROM AN OX-HIDE RAFT.

The N.C.D. News correspondent writing from Lanchowfu, Kan, on Oct. 30, said:

The Yellow River, which takes its rises on the far off Tibetan hills, flows for the most part north-east through Kansu, slowly boring its way through the mountain ranges that bar its course till at last it bursts through the last barrier—a spur of the mighty Kunlun ranges, which circles round Ningxia, and by hemming in the river there forms a rich alluvial plain 350 li long and half that wide—and then the Yellow River, wide and majestic, pours itself out on the plains of Mongolia.

It has been plausibly suggested that the whole river should be used to irrigate Mongolia. Certainly to construct dams similar to the irrigation works of Egypt or India should be a feasible task and a vast tract of waste land could be used there to support many millions of people. But such a dream seems unbelievable in the present chaotic and parochial condition of Chinese politics. So for the present let us confine ourselves to actualities as we float our way down the current through the Mongolian pasture lands.

THE HUNTER'S PARADISE.

The river banks in Mongolia abound with vegetation. Often the undergrowth is very thick. Great sleepy cows and horses come down in herds to the water's edge for a drink. They are sleek and well favoured, living in the luxuriant Mongol grass. Wild geese and ducks abound. Often we saw pheasants. Where the mountains come down to the river, rock antelopes are common. Once we saw white pelicans—a quaint group of four by the mudflats close to us.

For the most part, once the Ningxia hills are left behind, the sky line in every direction is the level plain—broken here and there by sand hills which show up white against the pre-palling brown. The signs of the presence of man are few. An occasional sail of some Chinese barge on its way up to Shidaidi (the last town of Kansu) or the tiny fishing craft that hunt in couples with a net between and often make rich harvests from the waters—perch especially, weighing 10 catties or more each.

MAN THE RARITY.

Occasionally a group of huts or a Mongol tent or two may be seen, but for the most part the only sign of human life is our own raft—queer craft that it is, made of its 108 oars hidden together four in a row and each filled with straw, and so buoyant that it can support a cargo of 25,000 catties.

Coal is mined at one point not far from the river, and stacked up on the bank so that, for a moment, the scene is more suggestive of a pit-head at home than of a spot in far Mongolia. At another place where a Catholic colony has been established, the spires of a couple of churches remind one of earnest work and enterprise for years past and show what can be done to bring the wilderness to something like a garden.

A DISTRICT IN MAKING.
In accordance with our usual maps, I have called the district through the Yellow River flows, Mongolia, from the point where it leaves Kansu to the point far to the eastward where it is welcomed back to China by the gulfing hills of Shensi. But to be up-to-date the district should be called Chahai-ki, or rather Chahar, a new province in the making, whose capital is at Kueihucheng. At this city resides the ruler of Tutung, a man of the name of Chai with a somewhat savoury reputation. Opium has been grown freely in Chahar lately and the Tutung is said to have done nothing to stop it. Kueihucheng itself is a large rambling city with a population of a quarter of a million.

CHINESE SERVANTS.

EMPLOYMENT IN ENGLAND.

SOLVING A PROBLEM.

Under the heading of "Why not Chinese Servants" a writer in The Lady of Sept. 16 says:—Good servants are still very difficult to obtain, and in many cases the wages asked are prohibitive. In some countries the solution of the problem is found in the employment of Chinese, and those who have had to do with them tell you that they never properly appreciated their Chinese staffs until the present day.

A Chinese "boy" makes a first-class personal servant. He is alert, loquacious, and general handy man. His master's interests (next to his own) are paramount, and he will allow no encroaching on his duties.

The cook, too, is a splendid fellow. You bring a dozen guests home unexpectedly to dinner when, instead of grumbling or resigning on the spot, he calmly proceeds to beg, borrow, or steal the wherewithal to turn out a meal that would do credit to a trained chef. From eggs and bacon—not so simple as it sounds—to prawns in aspic, from "limseyquish" to Puch Romanne, he is a masterpiece.

The "saw" would do anything for her small changes, who sadly miss her easy going ways when they come under a strict English nurse.

Of course, you must understand them, which means, paradoxically, that you must realise that you can never hope to do so. It is a platitude that no Westerner can understand the Eastern mind. You and your ways, however, are certainly every bit as incomprehensible to the Oriental as are his to you. Bear this in mind, and you are three parts of the way to a sound, workmanlike basis.

It is also most important to remember that if the Oriental knows you can see through his little subtleties he will respect you accordingly, and you will get good service. A couple of anecdotes will illustrate this point:

Brown, changing for dinner in a hurry one night, threw his drill coat on the floor in the usual way for the boy to collect and send to the wash. Next morning he remembered that he had left some money in the pocket. The boy was summoned. He explained without hesitation that he had taken the money in case the washwoman should steal it, and was keeping it safe. Now, if Brown had not been wide awake, the boy would certainly have kept the money safe and thought Brown a fool.

Jones had a fine turkey, which he was fattening up for Christmas. On arrival home one evening he was met by the cook, who, with every manifestation of woe, announced that the turkey had flown away into the jungle. The empty coop was produced, evidence incontrovertible to his mind. Jones, who was an old hand, merely remarked that the turkey must fly back again or there would be trouble for the cook, and sure enough the next evening there was the turkey safe and sound! If Jones had not been firm, he would never have seen his bird again, and the staff would have enjoyed some first-rate curry at his expense.

Yes, Chinese servants are excellent in many ways, and not least in the distinctly humorous episodes that they provide for your edification.

THE MOTOR-CAR COMING.

Next year the railway from Kaigan will have reached Kueihucheng and many thousands of refugees are now engaged in going the other way for the railway. At present a company runs motor-cars from the railroad at Sugi (near Fengchen) to Kueihucheng and to us Kansu folk a bumpy road on a Dodge touring car is a treat indeed. We look forward to the day when cars will run from the railroad all the way to Kansu and we shall live within a week of the coast instead of being months from it.

AMERICAN CONCESSION IN SIBERIA.

Stockholm, November 20th.
Washington van der Lip has arrived from Russia. The American Syndicate which he represents has secured a sixty year lease of the whole of north-east Siberia, east of the 160th meridian, including the Peninsula of Kamchatka, and will begin its activities in the Spring of 1921. The salmon fisheries will be leased to Alaskan canneries. The Syndicate has also acquired a long lease, with the right of purchase, of a portion of the Seattle waterfront purchased by the former Imperial Government.

In an interview Van der Lip denied the rumours of rebellions in Moscow.

London, November 16th.
Commenting on Mr. Vanderlip's Siberian "concession," the Pall Mall Gazette remarks that Mr. Vanderlip may find that there are other parties to be considered in the transaction with those who have been selling off Russia's resources, and points out that Japan recently announced that it would not recognise such concessions and she is able to make things very unpleasant for exploiters in that part of the world.

SENATOR HARDING.

Brownsville, November 16th.
Senator Harding has arrived from Point Isabel where his holiday plans were upset owing to a storm.

DAVIS CUP.

London, November 16th.

Reuter's correspondent at Vancouver states that the American Davis Cup team has sailed for New Zealand in the steamer Niagara.

BRITISH OFFICER SHOT.

Delhi, November 18th.
Colonel Foulkes, of the Indian Medical Service, was shot dead in his bungalow on November 15th by a number of tribesmen. His wife was badly wounded and dragged some way by the tribesmen but was subsequently released.

LONDON UNIVERSITY.

London, November 20th.
W. Hopkyn Rees, who has been appointed to the London University Readership in Chinese, teachable at the School of Oriental Studies.

U.S. SHIPPING BOARD.

New York, November 19th.
An amazing revelation has resulted from the Congressional Committee's enquiry into the Shipping Board scandal. As an example it is stated that in August, 1919, no record existed showing how $2,500,000,000 then expended had been disbursed.

NEW YORK, NOV. 18.

A receiver has been appointed for the eight Atlantic steamship companies, known as the Morse Lines, including the Pawnee, Englewood, Galeberry, Ascot, Adair, Arcadia, Pequot and Atlantic-Adriatic Corporations, whose outstanding obligations are one million and a half dollars. Their failure is attributed to falling freight rates.

FRENCH MILITARY SERVICE.

Paris, Nov. 17.
The French Cabinet has decided in favour of an eighteen months military service "in principle," stipulating a reduced service will not be effective until after the transitional stage, which, depending on the needs of national defence, will probably be in two years.

Contrary to rumours there is no question of the intention of the War Minister, M. Lefevre, to resign as a protest against the shortening of the period of military service.

Some 70 Japanese fishing boats which were fishing off Port Arthur on the night of the 3rd instant were swept away by a violent storm. On the 6th instant most of these ships, whose disappearance had been causing intense anxiety to the fishermen's friends, returned, but ten are still missing. The naval authorities at Port Arthur despatched four destroyers in search of the missing vessels and fishermen. The drowned bodies of some 20 men were discovered, but the fate of 50 more is still unknown.

THE BANQUE INDUSTRIELLE DE CHINE begs to inform the Holders of the Temporary Bonds of the CREDIT NATIONAL 1919, which have been subscribed through us, that same must be exchanged in our PARIS OFFICE for definite bonds before March 1921.

COX'S.*ARMY BANKING.INTERESTING ROMANCE OF ARMY BANKING.Cox's is not the heaviest bank of the world, in weight of money, but probably it has the most widespread reputation, says the Morning Post.
Within the last six years its cheques have penetrated to hundreds of remote parts of Europe which never saw a cheque before—and some of them were drawn by gallant young subalterns who had never drawn one before.For several years the pride of our youth—the fathers of the next generation—banked with Cox. Many of them bank there still. The great expansion of the bank's business during the war necessitated the acquisition of adjacent premises in every direction, and this resulted in the office as a whole becoming too spread-out and inconvenient for the proper working of the business. It has, therefore, been found necessary to remove as soon as possible from Charing Cross to a larger and more condensed home near door to the Carlton Hotel, with one entrance, in Waterloo Place and one round the corner.Every officer of the Army knows Cox's. Some were swept into it by the swirl of the Great War. Others had known it from the day they left school. The concern was founded by Mr. Richard Cox in 1758, and it is even older than the Morning Post, though not much. Mr. Cox was secretary to Lord Ligonier, then Commander-in-Chief of the Forces.
In those days the pay of both officers and men was in the hands of an "agent," and the appointment of the agent was in the hands of the Colonel of the Regiment. Lord Ligonier, as Colonel of the First Foot Guards (the present Grenadier Guards), conferred the agency of the regiment upon his secretary.250,000 OFFICER CLIENTS.
It was a big beginning for Mr. Cox.
He improved upon it, and his descendants have carried on the activities of the house to an extent of which on his most ambitious nights, he could never have dreamed. During the Great War they had far more officers on their books, from beginning to end, than the full strength of Wellington's Army in the Napoleonic Wars. The number was in the neighbourhood of a quarter of a million.When the crash of 1914 came the staff of Cox's numbered 180—and 60 of those went out to the war. Four years later the staff had risen to 4,000, of whom about 1,500 were women.
They worked double tides. When the day staff knocked off their desks were taken by a night staff, and cheques were cashed every hour of the 24.
Sundays and high holidays as well as week-days, for officers returning fromthe front or going back to it. At the height of the war, when all the nation was "in it," something like 50,000 cheques a day were cleared by the bank. Whatever a British officer went to a fighting front or even as a prisoner of war in Germany, he could draw upon his account at Cox's without troubling to prove his identity or his signature. His uniform was his warrant.The amount of work caused by so extensive a collection can be indicated by the fact that Cox's had to send a motor-van day and night to collect the mails from the District Sorting Office to save time in delivery and the number so collected generally reached 20,000 per day. The cost of the postage for replies was nearly £30,000 for the year 1918.Three houses act as Army Agents, and Cox's are definitely at the top.
In 1760 they became paymasters to the Royal Regiment of Artillery, Mr.
Richard Cox being appointed to the office by Lord Ligonier, as Master-General of Ordnance. Excepting for one brief interval of 14 years, and that was well over 100 years ago, they have held the agency ever since.In 1805 Cox's became agents to the Royal Engineers, and the subsequent connection between them carries on in an unbroken line. In 1807 Cox's had 118 regiments on their list, consisting of 166 battalions of infantry (including the three regiments of Foot-Guards) 19 regiments of cavalry, the Royal Artillery, the Royal Engineers, the Waggon Train, and 21 regiments of militia. In 1822, after the reduction of the Army following upon the Napoleonic Wars, the number of regiments fell. It rose soon afterwards. It had a big spur during the South African War, and during the Great War it extended amazingly, for in the height of the combat it rose to 1,122 battalions in addition to the Royal Artillery, Royal Engineers, and so on.CHECKMATING A PRINCE.From the beginning Cox has succeeded Cox, and there are now three of the name in the firm. The present head of the bank, Mr. Reginald H.
Cox, is the great great great grandson of the founder. At various times partners have entered, with the importation of secondary names. One of the most famous of these was Mr.
Charles Greenwood, a cousin of the House. A friend of the burly rollicking Duke of York, he was introduced by the Duke to his father, King George III. as "Mr. Greenwood, who keeps my money." "No, your Majesty," said Mr. Greenwood, "it is his Royal Highness who keeps my money!" That was true enough, and the debt was not wiped off until 60 years after the Duke's death. It was Mr. Greenwood who, in 1803, brought his nephew, Mr. Hamme-sley, into the firm, and there have been members of the Hamme-sley family in it ever since.MAGNETIC STEERING.*WONDERFUL DEMON-STRATION.

HOW SHIP CAN DEFY FOG.

Only recently, New York was bearing of the great loss entailed by liners unable to make the port because of fog, so that there was added enthusiasm among those people who saw wonderful demonstrations in the Lower Harbour of how ships may be safely guided from Sandy Hook to the docks despite the densest fog.It was a Navy experiment, and sea-going men of all classes considered that a remarkable success had been achieved. The idea is the simple one of piloting a ship by a magnetised cable laid in the channel.The sun shone brilliantly, so that a thick canvas around the bridge of the United States destroyer
"Semmes" was employed to blot out all chances of the steersman catching even a glimpse of the familiar river shore marks.Away down the stream Commander Norton "picked up" the cable, and by "listening in" and steering port or starboard according to the volume of sound indicating his position, he brought his ship to the desired haven.There is created about the cable an electro-magnetic field in which the vessel sailed.Aboard the "Semmes" the only visible evidence of a piloting device are amplifiers on a small table near the man at the wheel connecting with two coils hanging at the side of the destroyer just above the waterline.CHECKMATING A PRINCE.Many ex-officers preserve their connection-with the bank, as some 15 years ago it began to develop a commercial and foreign side to its business and has now attained a prominent position among the banks doing those classes of business. It has branches in India and Egypt and connections in all parts of the world. It formed a subsidiary Cox and Co.
(France) to deal with officers serving in that country during the war. It has now become necessary to acquire larger premises in the City of London, which will be ready for use towards the end of next year.A history of the House is now being compiled by one of its officers—Mr.
W. H. Bernat, who is anxious to receive, from military officers of long connection with the firm, any information which will assist in the preparation of the book. His hereditary connection with Cox's is four generations deep; and his case is not exceptional.NOTICES.*G. FALCONER & CO., LTD.*WATCHMAKERS & JEWELLERS.*Hotel Mansions.

DISPUTE OVER CABLEGRAMS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.
The controversy between the State Department and the Western Union Telegraph Company has reached an open breach, the Company refusing to handle further cable messages for the Department except upon prepayment of tolls. The dispute in regard to the Department's cable bills, which are unpaid since August, 1919, refers to 50 per cent. reduction formerly allowed on Government cablegrams, which the Company discontinued owing to war-time congestion.

owing to the Kemalists' presenting an ultimatum imposing crushing conditions the armistice of 12th November has ended and hostilities are being resumed. The Armenians declare they are determined to fight to the end.

MODERN CHINA.

PARIS, Nov. 18.
Professor Borel, a member of the recent French Mission to China, in an article in the Extremist dwells upon the most cordial reception given to the Mission everywhere in China and the results already obtained, such as establishing in Paris a new Institute for Chinese studies and a Franco-Economic Association. Professor Borel insists upon the immense possibilities of modern China, whose progress in industrial and commercial fields promise to surpass in the course of the present century, even those of the United States in the nineteenth century.

BRITISH TRADE.

LONDON, Nov. 19.
Great Britain is rapidly making up the ground lost in war-time in the direction of supplying the Dominion markets with goods. Mr. Kellaway, M.P. for Bedfordshire, showed that whereas 33 per cent. of the total of British exports went to the Dominions in 1913, this had fallen to 22.5 last year. There had been a considerable improvement, however, to 30.6 for the first six months of 1920. The United States and Japan, had principally benefited owing to lost trade.
The former only sold 9.5 per cent.
of total imports into South Africa in 1913, and over 24 last year. The respective figures of Australia from United States were 13.7 and 28.7,
India 2.6 and 12.2, and New Zealand 9.5 and 24.7. Britain ought not to rest satisfied until she again secured her pre-war hold over the Dominions markets. In order to achieve this, hindrances to production must be disposed of and manufacturers must get rid of the Variation Clause which excluded firm prices on a definite date of delivery. He was officially advised all over the world that this was hampering British trade more than anything. The continued existence of the clause was principally due to the uncertainty of the labour position.

REAL TOOTH DANGER LIES UNDER THE GUMS.

Under the gums is the important foundation—the bony root sockets which hold the teeth in place.

Healthy gums guard and preserve this foundation of your teeth.
Soft, bleeding, tender or receding gums allow Pyorrhea infection to creep beneath them. If unchecked, the germs spread to the bony root sockets, weaken and destroy them.

Then your teeth become loose and eventually fall out, or must be extracted—because Pyorrhea has eaten away their supporting foundation. You may have kept the visible surface of the teeth white and glistening by daily brushing—you may have had all cavities skillfully filled—but all that care has gone for naught because you neglected your gums.

Watch your gums if you want to save your teeth.

Pyorrhoea Powder was compounded for the specific purpose of maintaining and restoring gum health. In addition to its ingredients which keep the teeth white and clean, it is medicated with Dentalol, a germicidal and healing agent widely used by the dental profession in the treatment of Pyorrhea at the dentist's chair.

Pyorrhoea Powder tones up the gums, stimulates their blood circulation, maintains hardness and firmness, thereby increasing the power to resist Pyorrhoea infection. Its effectiveness for this purpose has been conclusively proved by thorough tests in clinics devoted exclusively to Pyorrhoea study and research. That is why dentists everywhere recommend it.

Stocked by leading dispensaries.

A CHEMICAL EXPERIMENT.

It is an axiom of chemistry that the integrity and properties of a substance reside in its molecules. A molecule, as you are aware, is a little mass, the smallest possible physical division of a substance, capable of remaining and retaining the characteristic properties of its own texture in bulk. But a molecule may be chemically subdivided into atoms. Atoms are, as the name suggests, indivisible. The word is derived from a-tomo, the prefix meaning "not," and the root "I cut." The simple chemical experiment with the familiar substance now before us is designed to cast doubt on the axiom cited at the outset, that the integrity and properties of a substance reside in its molecules. This substance is cellular; it was once protoplasmic and organic. Its texture was evolved with the convenience of solar heat, the origin, according to a formula of engineers, of all heat. We shall require heat for this experiment, and the heat we shall employ may also have been solar in its origin, but it will not be denied that it differs in several ways from the heat that was necessary to form this substance. The substance, by the way, is no longer protoplasmic; it would be vulgarly described as "dead," yet we shall see that without this death it could never really have lived. It had to lose its life to gain life. Our experiment will destroy it, because it is only in the course of this so-called destruction that we are able to know its integrity and properties. If our definition of the molecule is to stand, you will agree that we are not concerned with any physical subdivision of this substance. Our demonstration is chemical, and it means the resolution of one substance into two very dissimilar substances. One, as you will notice when you repeat the experiment for yourselves, will partake of the nature of wood-ash. The other will be a volatile form of matter superficially resembling a visible gas. The necessary apparatus is simple, and within the reach of all. We require a small vase, such as will hold the original substance firmly, but without crushing it. We shall require a simple pneumatic pump, and we shall require a very small quantity of sulphur, sulphide of antimony, chloride of iodine, and gun, so small that it need not embarrass the financial resources of the poorest of us. Here it is necessary to point out certain philosophical conditions that are too often disregarded in such experiments. We are dealing with a phenomenon, and all phenomena can be known to us only by our senses. In this experiment especially it would be impossible to become aware of the integrity and properties of this simple but remarkable substance unless we were endowed with the senses of smell and of taste. It must irritate us, in the biological sense of the verb, before it can gratify, satisfy, and pacify us. It is its stimulating effects and actions upon the atomic constitution of our olfactory apparatus and organs of taste that constitute for us its chief and most appreciated characteristics. Indeed, there is a fairly widespread admission that we have here, as it were, an interfusion of matter and spirit, because the smoking of a good cigar, as this experiment is called, has undoubtedly spiritual effects with which the causal connection between them and the material body of this substance is not easy to trace.

OLD POST OFFICE BUILDING.

Somebody must have told the Government people that they would probably get more money for the Old Post Office site by putting it up in one lot. We were thinking of suggesting, when the first advertisement appeared, that the purchaser of the corner lot should be given the option of taking the others at an equal rate per square foot. The corner lot would naturally fetch most, and the buyer of the corner lot would be likely to want the whole site. We know of one intending buyer who has relinquished this plan owing to the extraordinary conditions of sale. Why should the Government stand in its own light, and lose the higher figure it would otherwise have got, by stipulating 125 feet as the maximum height permissible for the new building? Where sites are so few, and the sideways expansion of the business quarter practically impossible, expansion upwards is the natural outlet for congestion, usual elsewhere, and there is no valid objection to at least another 75 feet. But the worst condition of all is that which says "the design of the exterior" must be subject to the special approval of the Director of Public Works, who shall require the main features "to harmonize with those of the adjoining buildings." There is no arguing about questions of taste, but if the "adjoining buildings" are the most beautiful standard beyond which Hongkong must never advance, we are sorry. It seems to us that if the Government stipulated for a safe and sanitary building, and left the purchaser at other wise free hand, it would gain a great deal and lose nothing.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

Mr. Raven, the architect, has reported to the police that between the hours of 6 p.m. on Friday and 6 a.m. on Saturday, his office at No. 7 Des Voeux Road was entered by a thief who stole from his desk an electric table fan valued at $50.

For having snatched a pair of diamond earrings valued at $550 from a young woman in Upper Lascar Row on Friday night, a Chinese was on Saturday sentenced by Magistrate Smith to nine months' hard labour, eight strokes, and four hours' stocks.

The weekly devotional meeting at the Helmut May Institute will be held on Thursday of this week, instead of Wednesday (5.30 p.m.). This will be the last of the series conducted by Rev. G. J. Williams. Mr. Williams expects to be leaving Hongkong about middle December.

"Ooo! Looka Here! Whaddya Think Has Hit Li! Old N'Yawk?" is the heading given by the Shanghai China Press to a U.S. Naval radio message from New York, stating that several hotels have announced that a ten per cent. price reduction on all foodstuffs will be made immediately.

It is stated that the representative of Messrs. When an agreement is reached, works will, it is said, be established at Tientsin and Shanghai.

According to latest official returns the number of foreign tourists of various nationalities who visited Japan during the first half of the current year was 15,252 men and women, the figure being 90 less than the same period of last year. The Chinese take the largest percentage of the number with 6,142 followed by the Americans with 3,100, and the British with 2,100 and the Russians with 2,037.

The latest move of the Japanese authorities in the matter of checking the "dangerous ideas," which some assert have taken possession of certain sections of the reading public to establish a censorship over books brought from abroad. The Customs officials have already begun to examine all books imported, and even the books of private passengers are no exception to the new rule. These officials, presumably, will decide what constitutes a "dangerous" book and what is "safe." The Department of Home Affairs regards this new deal with a certain amount of scepticism, and points out that the establishment of what amounts to a censorship over books is tantamount to cutting off the trend of modern thought, resulting in this country being isolated from the rest of the world in this respect. Books dealing with anti-Japanese movements, recently published in Shanghai and in the United States, and by Koreans residing in Russia, and books relating to the Korean question as seen from other points of view, are apparently forbidden, for, according to Mr. Akagi, the head of the Peace Department, these have been already confiscated. Books which deal with American-Japanese relations are also prohibited.

INTERPORT TENNIS.

DOUBLE MATCH.

The seventh and last but one of the Interport Matches between Hongkong and Shanghai was played on Saturday on the ground of the Club de Tennis. The contestants were J. Tanaka and R. Carnavaro (Shanghai) v. Ng Sze Kwong and W. Lok Wei (Hongkong). The match resulted in a win for the home pair in the fifth set.

Scores:—Hongkong win, 6-8, 6-3, 6-8, 6-3, 6-2; 30 games to 24.

Hongkong won the toss and elected to serve. Shanghai took the South end to receive Ng Sze Kwong's service. The first three points went to Hongkong with all players erratic, and then Ng serving a double fault and Shanghai playing up the game went to them. The local champion was evidently taking things easily, and the visitors tried the effect of playing on to Wei. On the service of Carnavaro they succeeded in gaining the second game, making it 2-0 to Shanghai. The next game saw Tanaka, who apparently was afraid of the Hongkong smashing, or who wished Ng and Wei to over-reach themselves, tossing with great accuracy on the baseline, but Wei asserted himself and the score was called 2-1. The Japanese player then started smashing in his best form from the neighbourhood of the service line, and made it 3-1. His smash is taken well out in front of him, and hit with great force. The majority of the points scored by Shanghai in the match went on this particular stroke and it is certainly one which our local men might with advantage copy. Tanaka did not have the chance to use it much in the final of the Shanghai Championship, as he could not get Pott to lob, and as singles call for a much greater speed in order to execute the shot than do doubles.

In spite of Ng's tactics in the next game, when he tempted Tanaka to smash beyond his reach, a double fault by the server (Ng) helped to make it 4-1 for the Northerners. At this point the Hongkong pair began to play up, and thanks to some fine recoveries by Ng a hard-fought game went to the local pair, bringing the score 4-2 against them. Wei, serving, then followed up his services excellently, and thanks to some superb stop-volleying on his part he made it 4-3. Tanaka then tried to retain the lead for his side on his service, but Hongkong kept a beautiful length on their lob and proved too much for the aggressive tactics of the Shanghai pair. A double fault by the server gave the game to Hongkong, the score reading 4 all. Ng did some work for a change, and despite ill-luck in the matter of some difficult base line decisions he carried it to 5-4 for his side, thanks to Carnavaro going to sleep in the middle of one point. Carnavaro promptly avenged this on his service, although a fine return of one of Tanaka's smashes by Wei made it more difficult, and equalised at 5 all.

After this Hongkong made an effort to get the set which they had so far succeeded in saving, and looked likely to do so when a short-range exchange between Ng and Carnavaro which contained a number of slow but perfectly placed cross-court shots had ended in their favour and the game went to them at 6-5. But Tanaka, serving, followed up his deliveries and smashed to such good purpose that he equalised again at 6 all. With both Hongkong men making bad mistakes Shanghai took the next game (7-6) and in a close-fought final game in which Shanghai led 40-30 and advantage twice, Carnavaro's service saw the set go to his side at 8-6. A close fought set, this was characterised by a certain amount of experimenting on both sides, and it was in the latter sets that the really fine play was seen.

SECOND SET.

Shanghai determined to get the next set and so established an advantage which Hongkong would find it almost impossible to wipe out. In pursuance of this they took the first game of the second set, several fine smashes by Tanaka demoralising the home defence. But Ng and Wei kept their heads, and lobbing well replied with a love game, making it one game all. Both Ng Sze Kwong and W. Lok Wei were using their heads in this set in marked contrast to their opponents. Encouraged, they took the next, Wei putting some very fine short volleys and stop-volleys in to perplex the Northern pair. With Carnavaro slightly exasperated with his luck and Ng scoring an apparently impossible point off a short ball, Shanghai saw it go to 3-1 against them, and made an effort on Wei's service to retrieve the position. This they did to the tune of game-15. But both Tanaka and his partner were hitting the ball off centre, and to the accompaniment of loud applause from the crowd whenever these mishits scored, Hongkong took it to 4-2. It is a pity that tennis is so little understood in the Colony that a ball which scores because it goes in a perfectly different direction from that which was the intention of the striker should receive more applause than many another fine shot. But so it is; rounds of clapping greeted smashes that were played off the wood and were not smashes at all in consequence, while better strokes went unnoticed. This sixth game was a very long drawn out one, many deuces intervening before it went finally to Hongkong.

Shanghai had the next game, for several shots from the other side that might have been just in time for a louder shout from the linesmen, as the players were put off considerably by decisions given several shots after the out-bell, and the later performance of these gentlemen was much better. The linesman plays a part only second to that of the umpire, and on the promptness of his calls depends much of the smoothness of the relations between the players and the officials. Hongkong found a better length in the next game, and Ng in particular tempted Tanaka to smash from the baseline to such good purpose that he gained it for his side, taking the lead to 5-3. Tanaka brought off several of his lightning drives in the next, but they failed to score, Ng making a particularly fine save off one of them. Tanaka was not using his drive to anything like the same extent as in his previous matches here. He seemed to rely much more on his smash, which was certainly working superbly, if an on the forehand drive with which he had beaten Lo and himself in the singles. With all the men doing finely and the tennis of a higher standard than the previous set had shown Hongkong took the game and made it one set all. It was clear to see that Ng had wanted this set quite as badly as Shanghai, for with one set all the Hongkong pair had the chance of wearing the others down, and in particular of getting Carnavaro off his game. Tanaka played at the same perfect pitch all through, but his partner showed an occasional falling-off which proved most useful to his opponents. But all were playing finely, and deserved all the applause they got. Set 6-3 to Hongkong.

THIRD SET.

The beginning of the third set on Tanaka's service was marred by sounds like explosions behind the screen at the South end, which seemed to put the Japanese off several of his shots, and Hongkong took an easy game. In imitation of his partner's lapse, which however ended with the game, Carnavaro now went off his game, missing easy shots and losing the second game. On his own service, however, he recovered, and with Hongkong lobbing short and meeting with immediate and just retribution from Tanaka's smash, Shanghai pulled up to 2-1 in Hongkong's favour. Ng Sze Kwong was taking things easily, and in consequence missed opportunities that he should have scored from, and the games were called 2 all. The champion now began to make mistakes and miss shots in a way we do not expect to see, and lost the next game in this way, Shanghai leading 3-2. But Wei, to prove the selection of the Committee, played a fine game throughout his partner's errors, and saving Tanaka's drives from forehand to forehand across the court, he saved the situation to the tune of 3 all. Ng did not shine through the whole of this set, and Wei's play was the factor which held Shanghai from a runaway set. With all trying hard the next game went to the visitors, a mishit by Wei ending a very well-fought game.

Ng had the next service, and Hongkong hoped that he would place it well enough to enable his willing partner at the net to cut off the returns. But these hopes were ill-founded, and the points were decided by driving and lobbing contests, in which Shanghai managed to score. A game in which all realised the importance of gaining a lead for Shanghai went finally to the strikers-out, and Hongkong had to face a lead of 5-3 against them. Tanaka served next, and Wei showed a little of his Wimbledon form, winning the game with ease. Another crucial game saw all the players on top of their form with the exception of Ng, who seemed to be unable to find his real game. But his partner again pulled the set out of the fire for the time being, and made it 5 all to the accompaniment of rounds of applause from the spectators. On Carnavaro's service Tanaka took a hand, making several fine smashes from the service line, and gaining the game for his side. Carnavaro, however, on Ng's service, led the next game by a number of bad errors, which Tanaka took as all in the day's work, with a smile. The Japanese is certainly a fine sportsman, showing an example in this respect which many of the spectators would do well to copy.

On his own service Tanaka repaired the mistakes of his partner, smashing his way to deuce and a game in which all the men were out to do their best, but after the long rally, advantage striker, deuce, advantage server, game to Shanghai, 7-6. The game fine rallies marked Wei's following service, but again Tanaka's smashes proved the deciding factor, and the game and set went to Shanghai after a fine struggle, at 8-6. The great heat of the day after the late cooler weather was telling on all the players, and it was clear that Tanaka hoped that his fine training would enable him to keep the pace up sufficiently to hold Hongkong on the run.

FOURTH SET.

On Carnavaro's service, Shanghai began well, helped by the fact that

Ng was putting his shots very short and making many errors. They took the first game, and succeeded in winning Ng's service with ease, making it 2-0. Wei felt the strain of the moment, for Shanghai needed but this set to win the match, and did his best to give it to them by losing his game for a little, during which time Shanghai managed to bring the score to 3-0 in their favour. It looked as if the break had come, and Hongkong supporters began to look glum in sympathy. But Wei's fit of uncertainty was of short duration, and stopping several of Tanaka's fierce drives in a way which seemed to put Carnavaro off his game, he finished the game with a fine stop-volley from one of these which brought rounds of well-deserved applause. Both he and Ng now played a fine game, going out for everything, and after another hard game a net ball by Wei brought the score to 3-2. Ng now served, and found Tanaka's backhand a very vulnerable point. He and Wei played on to this such good purpose that they equalised at 3 all, Carnavaro ending the game by netting an easy one. On Tanaka's own service Shanghai could do no better, Ng chopping short ones to the Japanese's backhand, and helped by a double fault Hongkong made it 4-3 in their favour. Shanghai seemed to go to pieces after this, and Ng did his best to make sure of the set by going for everything, not trusting that it would be out, but running well round every lob and risking nothing. He was putting much more into his drives, and perplexing both his opponents with his deadly backhand. Hongkong took the game, scoring 5-3, and with neither of the visitors able to do much, the last game of the set went to them on a mistake of Carnavaro in netting another easy one, giving 6-3. Tanaka's partner, in his anxiety to save everything, took a ball which was obviously out, and probably feeling this at the instant of hitting the ball, he gave the point to Hongkong.

FIFTH AND LAST SET.

The last set began with all four feeling the effects of the heat and losing something of the force of their strokes in consequence. On Ng's service the first game, as hotly contested as the temperature permitted, went to Hongkong after Wei had intercepted a fine drive from Carnavaro in excellent style, finding the driver off his balance. Carnavaro, however, equalised on his service. Ng netting the last shot to his own evident disappointment. Wei followed, Shanghai lobbing well, but Carnavaro's last toss going just over the base line. This brought the score to 2-1 to Hongkong, and on Tanaka's service his partner had the misfortune to strain his leg in some way, and began to limp. His smashes, in consequence of this in all probability, went far out, and the game passed to Hongkong, giving them a lead of 3-1. Ng served, keeping well on the less deadly backhands of the Northerners, and on the last shot of the game, by Carnavaro, that player was seized with cramp, limping with difficulty to the other side when ends were changed on the score 4-1 to Hongkong.

The sixth game was Carnavaro's service, and the effort of running up on each delivery proved too much for him, for after love-15, love-30, love-40, to Hongkong Carnavaro subsided on the court and could not move. The game was stopped while the players and the umpire gathered round Carnavaro and rendered first aid. After a half of some ten minutes the effect of massage by various people seemed to be beneficial, and Carnavaro rose to continue, receiving a round of hearty applause in recognition of his fine sportsmanship in going on after his injury. But the last point of the game went to Hongkong, to make it a love game for them. The prospects for Shanghai were far from bright at this juncture, for with Carnavaro more or less out of action Tanaka had a heavy task to cope with the two Hongkong men, who were playing with confidence born of their substantial lead. He tried to play the game himself, trusting that he might get Hongkong to be careless and give him an opportunity to use his smash.

On serving Wei took the first two points by good play, both he and Ng trying to keep the ball from Carnavaro as far as possible, and play on to Tanaka. Tanaka took the next point by a perfect drive through Wei, and then Carnavaro passed the service by a fine cross-court shot which was nicely clear of his backhand as he ran up to follow in after his service. Hongkong played into their opponents' hands by Wei putting his shot over the sideline, but Carnavaro copied him and let Hongkong call it deuce. But Hongkong would take no denial in their intention to present this game to their opponents, Ng smashing outside with his next chance, and another magnificent drive from Tanaka settled the game, leaving both Hongkong men standing. The score was now 5-2, and Carnavaro appeared to be recovering from the effects of his cramp. Shanghai might yet save the match if Hongkong suffered from overconfidence.

But on Tanaka's service the end came. The Japanese could support the whole game himself, as he tried to do, and sent his first smash on the run up after his service, well over the baseline. Nothing daunted, he followed up his next service to Ng, and made

MURDERED FOR WHAT?

SHANGHAI MYSTERY.

DEAD BODY FOUND IN A DINGHY.

Mystery surrounds the death of an unknown Chinese whose body was found yesterday by the Shanghai police lying in an unnumbered and unmarked dinghy at Saiwanho.

An examination revealed a bullet wound in the neck. The body was fully clothed, and in the pocket of the jacket was found $5.80 in small coins.

The circumstances point to murder (for a purpose other than robbery), as no arms were found in the vicinity.

Sergeant Floyd is investigating the case.

a smash which this time was inside. He hit the next into the net, but equalised at 30 all by another express shot, which Wei nearly managed to save, but did not succeed in getting over the net. Carnavaro missed an overhead shot in the next exchange, losing the lead at 30-40, but Ng threw away the advantage at "point-set" match by putting it over the side line by a careless shot. He repaired this by catching Tanaka on his backhand, the Japanese netting the shot, and with the score at advantage to striker, Tanaka tried another smash to equalise, but sent it over the line, giving set and match to Hongkong.

The play of the visitors was markedly better than they had shown in the previous match against Lo and Ivanovich. More on their mettle, they put more sting into their shots, and Tanaka's smash in particular was brilliant. The Hongkong pair played together better than against Pott and Ollerdesten, Wei playing a very fine game most of the time. Ng Sze Kwong seemed not to shine as much as in his earlier matches, though he made some pretty shots. He probably felt the heat, and seemed careless on many occasions. His forehand was weak and purely defensive, while his backhand lacked much of his usual pace.

Service is the weakest department of all the players, none of them possessing a difficult delivery—except perhaps Ng, and that only on account of his accurate placing of the service. Wei's delivery was much better, though he shows a tendency to foot-fault by a curious hop-and-shuffle at the moment of hitting the ball, which he should eradicate from the service as soon as he is possibly can. Tanaka has a pretty delivery, but lacks pace and placing, so that he seldom scored a clean point. He tried a number of short cut services, but the change in his stance was too marked to deceive, and he could not catch his opponents napping. Carnavaro has no characteristics worthy of mention in his service, the delivery consisting of a simple forehand cut.

Tanaka's ground strokes were lacking in force compared to his previous displays. His drive scored a few points, but his backhand was noticeably weaker than against Lo, and his lobbing not of high quality on the whole. His smash, however, redeemed all these other things, and proved the most consistent point-scorer in the match, punishing every short lob or high drive with beautiful precision and being nearly unreturnable. If he did not confine his smashes to the centre part of the court he would be better still, but undoubtedly this stroke was the most spectacular and effective on the court during the match. Carnavaro possesses no great stroke, being sure on both hands without being deadly, and his smash is slow. Wei puts in a fast drive on occasion, both from forehand and backhand, and when he is in position at the net is capable of killing a short lob with a high-bouncing smash. Ng's play is too well known in the Colony to need general exposition, but on Saturday he was not on his game most of the time, and few of his shots showed real deadliness. His play, however, is characterised by beautiful headwork, every shot being thought out before execution, and owes most of its efficiency to this factor. His service is placed with deliberation and accuracy, as I have said, and in this he is unique in the Colony. If to his service he would add speed, to his forehand drive, depth and speed, to his smash a certain abandon, he would be a player hard to beat in any country. His slight build and the climate of Hongkong no doubt account for most of this, but we should all like to see him as good as he has every chance of being and the power to become.

In the single between Ng Sze Kwong and J. Tanaka on Monday at the Hongkong Cricket Club the last match of the Interport meeting will be played, and Tanaka must save the match to make it a draw for his side. If Ng plays the game he usually does when he has a tough proposition on hand he should have only a moderate amount of difficulty in making the result five matches to three in favour of Hongkong. We shall see.

C.C.C. BEAT H.K.C.C.

Hongkong Cricket Club were at home to the Craikengower C.C. on Saturday afternoon in a league match which resulted in a win for the visitors by five wickets. Only nine of the Craikengower players batted and seven contributed double figures to a score of 182, at which figure the innings was declared closed for seven wickets. Lawrence contributed a well compiled half century which won for him much applause. The Club replied feebly with only 86 runs, of which Farthing was the chief contributor with 13. Drake secured seven wickets for 34 runs.

FRIENDLY MATCHES.

C.R.C. v. UNIVERSITY.

The University were visitors to the Chinese R.C. at Causeway Bay on Saturday afternoon when a very close friendly cricket match was played. The match resulted in a draw, the "Varsity" having an incomplete innings of 115 for three wickets. A good feature of the match was the batting of Un-Hew-fan, whose contribution of 39 to his side included seven boundaries. In his score of 22, G. Lee hit four fours, and Lo Man-pan (17) three. The last named pair was the mainstay of its side and gave it a good start. The tail failed rather badly. The innings closed for 146 runs. The University started rather badly, losing three wickets for 19 runs. Then Samy and Cheah started a partnership which was unbreakable, and lasted until very near the close of the match when Cheah was got bowled by Ching, T. E. Yeoh who followed Cheah, succeeded with Samy to play out time and thus effected a very creditable draw. Samy, who batted very well, had ten fours to his credit.

R.G.A. DEFEAT I.R.C.

This match, which was played on the Indian ground, had a very exciting finish, which gave victory to the R.G.A. by the narrow margin of one run. The Indians started very well with A. Rumjahn and S. H. Ismail batting first. These two put in a partnership which brought the score to 64 before both succumbed. The others who followed went out in quick succession, 3 for 76, 4 for 76, 5 for 86, 6 for 87, 7 for 87, 8 for 93, and 9 for 93, at which figure the innings was closed. Both Baker and Davis had very good bowling averages, each getting two wickets in one over. The R.G.A. with 94 runs to get to win, started very badly, losing one wicket for two runs, 2 for 18, 3 for 44, 4 for 48 and 5 for 50. When Capt. Davies joined Capt. Oliver, the rot was successfully stopped. The latter hit five fours. These two added 19 runs to their side's score before the partnership was broken. The other batsmen who followed did not stay long, but managed just to compile the required number of runs. They went out 6 for 69, 7 for 77, 8 for 81 and 9 for 85, and then with the last man in, it looked as if it was the Indians' game, but Gunner Chant kept his end up, leaving Lieut. Graham to make the runs, and the latter playing very carefully amidst tense excitement, hit a single off Ismail and two fours off Earde, and carried his side's score over the Indians' total. Chant then faced Ismail's bowling, but succumbed to the first ball. For the Indians, Earde had the good average of 4 wickets for 20 runs while Ismail as a change bowler was successful in spite of Davies's six. He got three wickets for 11 runs.

CIVIL SERVICE BEAT STAFFS.

Playing at home on Saturday afternoon, the Civil Service C.C. proved too strong for the Staffs and won rather easily. Batting first, the Civil Service did not start very promisingly, losing the first wicket for 6, and another for 32. Then a stand was made against the bowling, and the score was quickly brought up to 156 at which figure the Civil Service declared for six wickets. Witchell contributed a fine 87, of which 17 were fours, and but for his bad luck in being run out, might have made his century, as he was properly set. De Rome had four fours to his credit, and A. E. Wood and Bird three each at the expense of the Staffs' bowlers, none of whom had any terror for batsmen. The Staffs' batting too, was weak, yielding only 93 runs. Franks hit two sixes off Edmonds, and two fours. Lieut. Col. Humphry had five fours to his credit. The others made very poor stands before Bird's bowling and were got out cheaply.

The scores were—

LEAGUE FOOTBALL.

FIRST DIVISION.

	P.	W.	L.	D.	P.
"Tamar".....	2	S. China	0
Police.....	3	Kowloon	1
Wills.....	2	Club	1
R.G.A.....	1	"Ambrose"	0

Both in the First and Second Division matches on Saturday the football prophets failed to forecast correctly, with the exception of the R.G.A. v. "Ambrose" match in the first, and Kowloon v. Indians in the second Division.

"Tamar" v. S. China.
The delay in the sailing of the "Atrous" gave the "Tamar" a stronger team than was anticipated, Graydon, who sails for Home to-day, turning out for them for the last time. Playing with great combination and using their weight to advantage the sailors proved too good for the nimble Chinese players who went down to defeat fighting hard to the last.

The match was on Navy Ground, Mr. Chelsey being referee. The game more than rivalled that of the Club v. Wills match—the Chinese always draw a good crowd.

Kicking off, the Athletic were away at once, sampling the quality of the "Tamar" defence, who however were up to scratch, and clearing well out, put the "Tamar" forward line in motion, cross-shooting just over the bar. Then the Athletic attacked, to fail in front of goal, and the ball again changed sides. This time the "Tamar" succeeded, Graydon scoring from a penalty given against the Athletic. The play then livened up. The Chinese swept down the field but their forwards were off their usual shooting form, and Radford in goal for the Navy managed the few difficult shots which did come in with ease. The sailors led by one goal at half time, play having been pretty even.

The first few minutes of play in the second half saw the Athletic strongly on the offensive, but nothing came of their efforts. The play then seemed to be almost wholly in the Athletic half, the Chinese defence working like navies to stave off a smashing defeat. The "Tamar" got a second goal from a free kick with which Graydon beat the Chinese goalie, the latter failing to see the ball in time. The Chinese broke away but seldom after this, and the final whistle went with the "Tamar" 2 up.

POLICE v. KOWLOON.

The result of this match came as a surprise, the Police winning in decisive style against a team that should have done better. Kowloon never seem to play a consistent game. At one match they show barely second division form whilst sometimes they put up a display worth watching as when they drew with the Wills a fortnight ago. The team really wants practice as a whole. Otherwise their combination will never be up to much.

In the first half the Kowloon forwards were more on the aggressive, but they were weak in front of goal, missing a number of easy chances. They were the first to score, Pasco putting in a lucky shot from close on the touchline which found the net. This put the Police off not one jot, and twice before the half time whistle went they broke through and scored. Alexander and Waits being responsible.

Early on in the second half Kowloon had chance after chance to equalize, but their shooting remained poor, and they could not beat the goalie. From a breakaway Carrill put in the third for the Police, this score ruling when Mr. Wells blew the final whistle.

WILLS v. CLUB.

The Club were down to win on Saturday, but they reckoned without their guests, who put up a splendid game right through, finishing winners by the odd goal in 3. McFavish, just back from Home furlough, turned out at inside left for the Club, but was rather out of form, also having the disadvantage of playing with a game leg.

The Club kicked off. Sandberg just failed to break through, and the Wills, getting away, Amor was robbed by Gerard, who feeding Riss, enabled that player to put in a good centre, which Sandberg focussed. The ball again went to the Club left wing, but another centre went begging and the Wills, having a go at the Club goal, Lucas drove behind. From a number of beautiful centres from Riss the Club's left wing Sandberg seized an opportunity to score, putting the ball well past the goalie into the net. Play after this was marred by a series of off-sides, both teams playing the one back game. Each side had a fair share of the play. The Club led by one goal at half time.

The Wills went away on the re-start determined to score, and after forcing a corner Swannmore put the Wills level. Still pressing hard, the Wills soon after beat the Club goalie again, Swannmore doing the trick. The Club were playing without McFavish, who here had to leave the field, and the Club forwards could not get away after this, the Wills pressing hard till the end of the game.

Mr. Jones was referee.

R.G.A. v. "Ambrose."

This match was played on the Sookpoo ground, and a very evenly contested match ended in a win for the Gunners who scored the only goal in the match. The play in the first half was very much in favour of the R.G.A. who should have scored more than once, but their forwards shot badly and in the second half the sound play of Savage at centre half for the "Ambrose" gave the Navy forwards a chance, they, however, not being able to do anything in the way of goal getting.

SECOND DIVISION.

	P.	W.	L.	D.	P.
St. Joseph's.....	6	Punjab	0
Kowloon.....	5	Indians	1
R.G.A.....	2	Reynolds	0
United.....	2	Club	0
Oilers.....	2	Athletic	0

The Second division matches resulted in some surprising wins, popular favourites going down in nearly every case.

FALL OF FREIGHT RATES.

LONDON, November 18th.
Freights continue to fall. The decline in the past three months has averaged over 50 per cent. Signs of the downward move have not ended. An example of the drop is afforded by the rate of transport of coal from the United States to France which was $35 at the end of May and is now $3. The cheapening of the rates is due to the quicker recovery of the world's merchant shipping from the influence of the war than its productive machinery. Consequently, more tonnage is available than goods for transport.

The downward position is likely to continue, at least temporarily, owing to 7,000,000 tons of shipping now being completed in British and foreign yards in the course of 1921, but the limit will be reached when shipowners find it necessary to lay up tonnage until the economic recovery of Europe provides more goods for transport.

STUDENT STRIKERS.

ANNAPOLIS, November 18th.
Refusing to accept the compromise offered by the Government in regard to "striking" the students at St. John's College walked out in a body.
The Maryland Board of Visitors has sent an ultimatum to the student strikers threatening dismissal, including scholarship holders, unless they return by November 22nd. Some have already returned.

POWERFUL POISON GAS.

NEW YORK, November 18th.
General Fries, of the United States Chemical Warfare Service, announces the discovery of a more powerful poison-gas than any used in the late war; also a gas-mask able to withstand it.
He further states that poison-gas can be solidified so that each soldier can carry a small canister of them.

BOMBAY MILL STRIKE.

SINGAPORE, November 20th.
A message from Bombay states that 5,000 millhands, at Sangli mill, struck owing to the refusal of their demands for gifts of cloth for the festival of Diwali.

Bombay, November 18th.
The Jacob Sassoon Mill strike has spread to two other Sassoon mills.

AUSTRALIA-LONDON EXCHANGE.

LONDON, November 18th.
The Federation of British Industries has sent a letter to the Hon. Andrew Fisher, High Commissioner for Australia, as regards the serious London-Australia exchange position, which is seriously endangering the trade between Britain and Australia. The letter declares that the Australian exchange banks, not possessing the necessary resources, are unable at present to purchase documentary bills on Australia, because so far the British Government was the sole purchaser of the staple Australian exports, and the sums disbursed on account of these purchases were made available to the exchange banks through the Commonwealth Government. The cessation of purchases has radically altered the situation, and henceforward, the money expended by Britain on the purchase of Australian products will be available in the ordinary course of commerce for the financing of the export of British goods to Australia. Such finance will not be available until the maturity of drafts upon London in respect of free shipments of Australian products. Consequently for three or four months the Australian banks will not have funds with which to finance their export trade from Britain. Therefore, the Federation suggests that the remedy lies in the Commonwealth removing the prohibition on the export of gold from Australia to Britain, and by placing at the disposal of Australian banks in London the considerable sums which the Commonwealth has at its disposal in Britain, and which it at present withholding from the normal function of financing trade.

BOXING.

NEW YORK, November 17th.
Mr. "Boo" Martin, champion of the American Expeditionary Force, knocked out the Englishman "Bandman" Rice in the second round of a ten-round contest.

LONDON, November 19th.
In the Welter Weight Championship of Britain at the Albert Hall to-night, "Kid" Lewis, knocked out Johnny Basham, in the 19th round.

DUMPING BILL.

LONDON, November 18th.
In the House of Commons, replying to Sir Keith Fraser, Sir Robert Horne said that, owing to pressure on Parliamentary time, it would not be possible to introduce legislation dealing with dumping in the present session.

BRITISH ENTERPRISE IN CHINA.

LONDON, November 20th.
The Financial press publishes an interview with Mr. H. H. Fox, C.M.G., the British Commercial Attaché in China, following upon his industrial tour of Great Britain. Mr. Fox stated that he was satisfied at the increased attention which was at the present time being paid to China, although, he emphasized that heavy expenses and delays through the labour market seriously handicapped British enterprises in China, and until some conditions were more settled our exports to the Far East were bound to suffer.

Referring to America's advantage, due to the training of Chinese students in the United States, who returned to China favouring American production, Mr. Fox said that a similar British scheme was on foot.

He agreed with Sir Charles Addis in regard to the international aspect of the Chinese Consortium, by which cooperation instead of competition would exclude multi-judicious complications. He emphasized the need for a more stable government in China under which China would achieve industrial development. He declared that we must not underestimate the recuperative powers of Germany who was struggling to capture her trade with China, while as regards the great progress of Japan, Mr. Fox stated that Japan was expected to observe the co-operative spirit of the Consortium.

ITALIAN DEPUTY'S ARREST.

ROME, November 19th.
The commission inquiring into the incidents arising out of Signor Buccos' arrest has reported that his conduct has demonstrated his evident unfitness for the work entrusted to him by a popular organization, and plausibly adds that when Signor Buccos recently visited Trieste he was accompanied by a young woman whom he introduced everywhere as a Hungarian Communist, persecuted by Italy. Consequently, the Socialists of Trieste welcomed her with fetes and presents. She was really an Italian and the Mistress of Signor Buccos.

GERMANY'S PROTEST.

LONDON, November 19th.
Germany has officially protested to the Assembly of the League of Nations against the methods of distributing mandates, declaring that under the Treaty of Versailles, it is illegal for the Entente Powers to distribute mandates amongst themselves. It is regarded as significant that the protest has been addressed to the assembly, and not the Council of the League.

The protest expresses the opinion that the ultimate destiny of the German colonies is not a matter to be settled by those who are temporarily controlling them, but by the assembly of the League which not only controls, but originated the mandates. The protest is signed by Herr von Simons.

SPORT.

FOOTBALL.

ST. JOSEPH'S v. PUNJABIS.

The College were too strong for the Punjabis. Playing on the St. Joseph's ground they scored three times in the first half and twice in the second, the Punjabis never once proving dangerous.

KOWLOON v. INDIANS.

Contrary to expectations, Jackson did not put in an appearance for the Indians, so that the Kowloon reserves did not find it any too difficult to dispose of their opponents, scoring five times to the Indians 1. The latter score was from a penalty kick. Mr. Sayer was referee.

R.G.A. v. RECREIO.

The Soldiers brought off a surprise against the Recreio, who really showed too good form to have been beaten by two clear goals. The Gunners had their goal to thank for a great display. Harris and Newcombe each scored for the R.G.A., the goals coming in rapid succession early in the second half.

UNITED v. CLUB.

This was another surprise match, as the Club were sure winners according to Saturday's programme. As is usual when any of the Chinese teams play, there was quite a considerable crowd to watch the match played on the Navy B. ground. The Oilers played a winning game right through, giving the Chinese defence plenty of work and their defence little chance. Ballard scored twice for the Oilers—both in the first half. This score ruled towards the finish.

OILERS v. ATHLETIC.

The result of this match caused more surprise than any other on Saturday's programme. As is usual when any of the Chinese teams play, there was quite a considerable crowd to watch the match played on the Navy B. ground. The Oilers played a winning game right through, giving the Chinese defence plenty of work and their defence little chance. Ballard scored twice for the Oilers—both in the first half. This score ruled towards the finish.

RUGBY.

THIS AFTERNOON'S MATCH.

A Rugby match will be played at 4.30 to-day between the Army and H.M.S. "Curlew" at Happy Valley.

BILLIARDS.

PALACE HOTEL HANDICAP SEMI-FINAL.

The game for to-night is between R. Thomas (125) and A. Tse (scratch), commencing at 8.30 p.m.

LET THE COBBLER STICK TO HIS LAST.

Some Shanghai doctors disagreed about the terms on which a new partner was taken in. When the latter tried to prevent him practising in Shanghai for five years, Judge Lobinger decided against them, on the ground that there was no valid contract. His judgment concluded with the following touch of humour:

"These worthy disciples of Esculapian attempted to cover a rather technical and complicated subject by a legal document of their own making, without expert assistance; and they achieved about the same measure of success as a lawyer would in performing a treatment of having a patient draft the contract not being subject to any condition, set in which was contemplated and desired a rather party. We have consequently no alternative but to dismiss the bill with costs to plaintiffs. It is so ordered."

SHANGHAI WIDDING.

BRAND-BURKILL.

A very pretty wedding took place on November 15 at Holy Trinity Cathedral when Miss Katherine Joyce Burkhill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Burkhill, was married to Mr. John Kenneth Brand, son of Mrs. and the late Mr. David Brand. Both families being of old residence and very well known in Shanghai, there was a great number of friends at the Cathedral and at the reception afterwards at Mr. and Mrs. Burkhill's house in Weihaiwei Road. The Cathedral was exquisitely decorated with a great profusion of chrysanthemums of all shades of gold. The ceremony was conducted by the Very Rev. Dean Symonds, and the service was choral, with Mr. Hurry, Mrs. BAC, at the organ. The bride, who was given away by her father looking charming, her white satin dress being trimmed with old lace and a pearl girdle. She wore a long tulle veil, which came right down to form a train. She was attended by the Misses Nellie Marshall and Phyllis Cumming as bridesmaids; their dresses were gold tinsel over flesh-pink crepe de Chine, with gold girdles and gold caps, and they carried pink posies. Mr. David Brand, the bridegroom's elder brother, was best man, and there were four ushers, Mr. J. H. Liddell, Mr. H. M. Hind, Mr. R. I. Fearon and Mr. S. B. M. Bremner. At the subsequent reception some very happy speeches were made. Mr. A. Brooke-Smith proposing the bride and bridegroom, Mr. Kenneth Brand, the bridesmaids, for whom Mr. David Brand replied, and Dr. R. J. Marshall, Mr. Burkhill. The bride's going-away dress was a fawn-coloured coat-frock.

CRIES FROM A COFFIN.

A WEIRD STORY.

CHILD NEARLY BURIED ALIVE.

Wuchow, November 7.—A strange story appeared in yesterday's Chinese paper, names, address, etc., everything very circumstantial.

In Kao-chia-bang (The Holy Family Lane) lives Mrs. Chow, a widow; she has a child five years old. With the advent of autumn, the child caught cold, and despite all remedies, became worse and worse till death came. The mother was distracted by the death of her only child. The funeral was arranged and the bearers started off towards Hung Shan with the coffin. Just as they were passing through the Great East Gate the guards heard a sound of crying from inside the coffin. They thought that strange, and insisted on its being opened when the girl was found restored to life, and gladly escorted home. Now all the neighbours say the restoration of the child's life is a recompense to the widow Chow for having preserved her widowhood, and refusing to marry again.—C. C. Post.

The London correspondent of Shipping and Engineering, in an article in this week's issue of that journal, makes some interesting comments on the present and future shipping situation on the Pacific. He considers that the amalgamation of the Holt Pacific interests with those of the Canadian Government will result in great benefit to British trade in these parts and expresses the opinion, which seems to be general in Great Britain, that a Government merchant marine operated in conjunction with private interest is of much more value to a nation's commerce than an entirely Government-owned merchant marine, which tends to stifle trade and discourage competition rather than encourage it.

KWANGSI DEBACLE.

A SHEEPISH RETREAT.

Navigators of the West River have just seen an extraordinary sight, in the evacuation of Kwangsi by the Kwangsi army. For forty miles along the river bank, marching in single file along the rude towing path towards the Kwangsi boundary, they saw the soldiers stumbling along—about 40,000 of them. About thirty per cent. of the men seen were unarmed, probably bearers. The Kwangsi general was not molesting them, although he had gunboats at his disposal, and could have exterminated them with machine-gun fire if he had wished. He explained to a China Mail correspondent that he did not wish to perpetuate bad feeling between the two provinces. We congratulate him on his humanity. The last attack on the Kwangsi troops was necessitated by their action in setting fire to a town through which they passed.

A Samshui correspondent reports that the centre of Luk Pu, the West River town which was looted and burned on Nov. 16 and 17, is now a mass of blackened ruins.

It was on Nov. 19 that the Kwangsi soldiers were seen marching in single file along the river bank in an unbroken line reaching to Yuet Shing twelve miles distant. After passing Yuet Shing a break was seen in the line of about four miles, and then a line of weary and footsore defeated Kwangsi troops retreating towards their own country. The retreat covered about forty miles, the retreating troops stopping nowhere and passing through towns and villages.

The following day the rear guard of the Kwangsi army was seen at Tak Hing, with the advance guard of the Kwangsi army ashore and aloft fourteen miles below the town. Many Kwangsi soldiers were taken prisoners during the battle in Yuet Shing near Shihching on the night of November 16, according to Canton press reports. According to latest reports to hand in Canton more than 2,000 defeated Kwangsi troops returned to Wuchow from Shihching on November 16. The traffic between Wuchow and Canton is still being interrupted more or less, notwithstanding the capture of Shihching by the Cantonese troops, according to the shipping people.

"My ship walked. When I arrived Yuet Shing plenty shots strike me ship—plenty shots. I then fear plenty danger, I run back Samshui. With these words the master of the stern wheeler "Nanning" from Canton to Wuchow with cargo and passengers, described his voyage in his report to the harbour master at Samshui. The "Nanning" was flying the American flag at the masthead.

CRIMINAL SESSIONS.

COUNTERFEIT COINS.

The trial of Chiu Kam on two counts revolving the possession of counterfeit coins took place this morning at the Supreme Court, in Criminal Session, before the Puisne Judge, Mr. Justice Wood. The trial of Chiu Kam, on similar charges, was set for this afternoon.

The two counts were as follows: (1) Importing counterfeit coin. That on October 17, 1920, Chiu Kam imported or received in the Colony from a part of China certain false or counterfeit coins—69 20-cent pieces and 630 10-cent pieces—knowing them to be false or counterfeit. (2) Having counterfeit coins with intent. That Chiu Kam on the 17th of October had in his possession 69 20-cent and 630 10-cent pieces.

The following jury was empanelled: M. Fernandes, A. C. Mathias, C. M. Soares, A. C. V. Vieira, L. G. Xavier, Golam Hyder, and George Arthur Robinson. Accused pleaded not guilty. Mr. Dyer prosecuted for the crown. Mr. T. N. Chang appeared for the defence. Mr. Dyer, outlining the case, said that on October 17 the prisoner was seen by a Chinese constable hurrying along Wing Lok Lane, carrying a bag. He was acting in a suspicious manner. The constable stopped him and asked what he had. The prisoner replied that he had money. He tried to escape, but was prevented. Compelled to open the bag, he produced a number of 10-cent pieces. The constable, suspecting the money was counterfeit, took the prisoner to the police station. Money changers examined the coins and pronounced all of them bad.

The prisoner made two statements. In answer to the charge on the first count, he said: "Chiu Kam told me to bring the money to Hongkong and receive the money at 4 Wah Ling Lane, where I was to deliver it. He paid me 60 cents for my passage from China. In regard to the second charge Chiu Kam told me to bring the coins to Hongkong and to give them to him there. I am a travelling trader. I brought the coins with me. They were wrapped in paper."

The 20-cent pieces were stamped 1891 and 10-cent pieces 1888. Chiu Kam was found guilty and sentenced to three years' imprisonment with hard labour.

YACHTING SEASON.

AUSPICIOUS OPENING.

ROYAL YACHT CLUB'S FIRST CRUISE.

North Point was gay with flags and pennants aloft and ashore on Saturday afternoon, for the opening cruise of the Royal Hongkong Yacht Club. It was a scene of beauty. In the little harbour were dozens of vessels of one kind and another, from smart motor boats to picturesque Chinese rigged craft, strung with flags. Ashore the lawn of the club building was similarly decorated. In the centre was a marquee, also bright with colour. At one end of the lawn was the band of the Wiltshire regiment, engaged in a programme of pleasing selections. Scrolling about the lawn or seated at tables scattered over the grass were the guests; and farther away, around the fringe of the harbour, were lines of Chinese spectators—the most noisily enthusiastic of all who were in attendance. Over the setting was a brilliant sun that flashed on the blue water and on the white sails of the trim little yachts that were entered in the contest. A fair breeze that came busily around the point kept the flags and pennants fluttering and provided wind enough to make the races interesting.

Among the visitors were His Excellency the Governor and Lady Stubbs, Commander W. Bowden Smith, and the Hon. Mr. Pollock. His Excellency was accompanied by Capt. McGrath, A. D. C. The races were keenly contested, and in almost every case the competitors came up to the finish line so nearly side by side that it was impossible to tell which was going to win. It all added to the interest of the occasion. Spectators at a yacht race like to see a race, with the boats well heeled over and crowding each other—not a drifting contest. They had their wish in Saturday's events, as all the boats came in at a gait that furnished plenty of excitement. The boats were splendidly handled. Some of the prettiest events on the programme were the ladies' races. The yachts were skillfully managed in each instance, and the final spurs kept enough to keep the spectators on their tiptoes with interest.

The unique events on the programme were of course the Chinese dragon boat races. There were two of these—one for large boats containing about twenty men and another for smaller boats carrying about a dozen men. The race of the larger boats was run off a second time after the arrival of His Excellency the Governor. These races were quite spectacular, and doubly interesting by reason of the fact that they were characteristic of the East. They fought out every foot of the course in a moving back and forth in which the paddles beating with a thrush that could be heard on shore, and the splashing water catching the glint of the sunshine.

While the races were in progress, tea was served on the lawn. There was dancing, also, in the gymnasium, to the music of the band.

When the programme was concluded, Lady Stubbs presented the prizes to the winners, at a table set out on the lawn. Mr. Frank Smyth, the Commodore, in a few preliminary words, expressed the pleasure of the Club in having His Excellency and Lady Stubbs present, and in the opportunity of welcoming them. The winners were then called up, and Lady Stubbs presented the prizes. All were applauded. When Lady Stubbs had completed her task, little Miss Arthur presented her prettily with a bouquet.

The Commodore then informed the members of the club and the guests that presently they would likely have Lady Stubbs herself as a competitor. He reminded the lady contestants that as Lady Stubbs knew something of yachting they would find their difficulties increased.

His Excellency, replying on behalf of Lady Stubbs, said that she desired him to thank the Club for giving her the opportunity of presenting the prizes in races in which she herself hoped to take part, later in the season. They had spent a most enjoyable afternoon. He congratulated the Club on the excellence of its arrangements, especially in providing the first fine afternoon in a number of days, and its ability to provide, as it had, at a moment's notice, an extra dragon-boat race for the enjoyment of his little son who had expressed a wish to see one.

The officials and committees responsible for the arrangements were: Patron.—His Excellency Sir R. E. Stubbs, K.C.M.G.; Commodore, Mr. Frank Smyth; Vice-Commodore, Mr. A. R. Lowe.

General Committee.—Commodore W. Bowden Smith, C.B.E., R.N., Capt. T. Arthur, Messrs. D. K. Blair, E. W. Carpenter, G. K. Wood, J. S. McCann, V. G. Smyth, P. B. Colthurst, R. E. MacDougall, (Hon. Secretary and Treasurer).

Sailing Committee.—Commodore W. Bowden Smith, C.B.E., R.N., Capt. T. Arthur, Messrs. D. K. Blair, H. S. Rouse, (Hon. Secretary), A. W. Van Andel, G. K. Wood.

Rowing Committee.—Messrs. E. W. Carpenter, J. S. McCann, T. F. M. Bevan, V. G. Smyth, D. M. Graham, P. B. Colthurst.

Swimming Committee.—Mr. E. W. Carpenter, and Mr. D. K. Blair. Officials for the Day.—Sailing.—Judge, Mr. D. K. Blair, Starter, Mr. A. W. Van Andel, Time Keeper, Mr. P. B. Colthurst, Rowing.—Judge, Mr. E. W. Carpenter, Starter, Mr. D. M. Graham.

SAILING RACES.

Chinese Rigged Cruisers.—Course, Murray Pier Line to the Club House, 5 miles. Starting gun 2.15 p.m. First silver cup.

There were five entries. Of these two—"Lacy Jean and Snipe"—did not start. After a very close race Mr. Cornell's "Helen" with a handicap of 30 seconds per mile, ran out a winner. The finishing times were: "Helen" (30secs. per mile) 3-51.48. "Niobe" (scr.) 4-03.14. "Oenone" (scr.) 3-53.0. Though "Oenone" showed the best time, she was not eligible for a place, as, owing to a mistake, she did not make the right course.

English Rigged Cruisers.—Course same as first race. Prize a silver cup. Starting gun 2.15 p.m.

There were 11 entries, but "La Cirale, Byrrhilde, Westwind, Feathers and Norseman" did not start. The race was closely contested. Mr. Piercy's "Azuma," scr. was the winner. The finishing times were: "Azuma" (scr.) 3-12.19. "Bestvace" (15secs. per mile) 3-17.14. "Chinook" (unrated) 3-25.36. "Irene" (60secs. per mile) 3-29.31. "Aleen" (60secs. per mile) 3-36.15. "Queen Bee" (150secs. per mile) 3-36.47. "Mist" (1.50secs. per mile) 3-55.56. Racing Yachts, Ladies.—Course Club House, to Kowloon Rock and Channel Rock and back to the Club House distance 4 miles, started at 3.45 a.m.

Of those who appeared on the programme, "Colleen" and "Ayesha" did not start. The race went to Miss Dennison's "Dorothea," with a handicap of 45 seconds to the mile. Mrs. Arthur's "Diana" (scr.), took in second place. The finishing times were: "Dorothea," Miss Dennison (45 secs. per mile) 4-50.59. "Diana," Mrs. Arthur (scr.) 4-55.11. "Rolla," Miss B. Blair (scr.) 4-55.35. "Sonja," Mrs. Grieg (45 secs. per mile) 4-55.51. "Orion," Miss Farmer (15 secs. per mile) 5-07.53.

The winner received a silver cup and the remaining competitors also were presented with souvenirs of the race. One Design Class.—For ladies. Course same as number three. Starting time, 3.55 p.m. Mrs. Harston's "Ailsa" was first. The finishing times were: "Ailsa," Mrs. Harston 5-09.41. "Halcyon," Miss Lowe 5-11.41. "Daphne," Miss McAlister 5-12.28. "Bonita," Miss O. Young 5-54.43.

The yachts in this race started from scratch. All entries started. Each contestant received prizes. Heyward Hays Class.—Course same as number three. For ladies only. The race went to Miss K. Blair in "Ursula" (scr.), with Mrs. Scriven's "Sirius" (20 secs. per mile). "Loia" and "Owl" did not start. The finishing times were: "Ursula" (scr.) 4-48.28. "Sirius" (20 secs.) 4-54.51. "Dawn," Miss G. Ramsey (20 secs.) 5-02.27.

All competitors received prizes. Gael Class.—For ladies. Course same as number three. The race went to Mrs. Loughlin in "Toinette," with Miss M. Ramsey's "Gael" second. The finishing times were: "Toinette" 4-51.54. "Gael" 5-01.05. "Thecla," Miss Strubblings 5-01.37. "Joan," Miss Chapell 5-01.55.

This was a close race. The boats finished bunched and there were only a few seconds between each. Each lady received a prize.

ROWING RACES.

Dragon Boat Race.—Large class. First $20, second $5. No. 2 boat, 1; No. 1 boat, 2.

Dragon Boat Race.—Small class. First $20, second $5. No. 2 boat, 1; No. 1 boat, 2.

These races were both keenly contested. The result was in doubt up to the last few inches. R.H.Y.C. 4 Oars.—(Scratch crews). First silver cups. Mr. Murdoch's crew 1; Mr. Pullen Denleat's crew 2.

Mr. Murdoch set his crew off striking 36 against their opponents' 34. The stroke was maintained. The winning crew won by about a foot's length.

Dinghy Race.—Confined to yacht boys. First $7, second $5, third $3. Ah Su 1; Ah Kan 2; Ah Lo 3.

BIG CLUB PROJECT.

AMBITIOUS SCHEME.

FORTHCOMING PUBLIC MEETING.

The subject of the erection of a large and modern club building, similar to a Y.M.C.A. establishment, for the use of members of the Navy, the Army, and European civilians, will be considered at an important public meeting to be held in the City Hall on Thursday, December 2, at 5.15 p.m. His Excellency the Governor will preside, and the meeting will be attended by Vice-Admiral Sir Alexander Duff, K.C.B., Commander of the China Squadron, and His Excellency Major General Francis Ventris, C.B., General Officer Commanding the Troops.

The decision to hold the meeting was reached at a conference of representatives of the Navy, the Army, and the Y. M. C. A. The purpose of the meeting is to bring before the public the details of the plan and to awaken general interest in the project. It is hoped that it will be well attended, and that all who favour such an undertaking will give it the support of their presence.

The scheme is to erect on a site opposite the Naval Yard gate an attractive building to be operated on Y.M.C.A. lines by a permanent staff. It is to be open to the use of members of the Navy and the Army and to European civilians. The building is to have the usual facilities of a well-equipped club, including a lounge, library, reading room, writing room, billiard room, dining and refreshment rooms, bedrooms for monthly residents and service men, bowling alleys, gymnasium, swimming bath, cinema hall, space for other entertainments, and the usual offices.

If sufficient money can be obtained, the building will be five stories in height. It is suggested that with the large amount of accommodation for civilians that is contemplated, the present housing shortage in the Colony will be materially relieved. Adjacent to the Club itself, but included in the same large building, it is proposed to establish a Naval Institute, for the use of soldiers and civilians as well as sailors, the establishment and maintenance of which will be undertaken solely by the Navy.

The ground for the site of the building is now the subject of communication with the War Office, and there is every hope that the answer will be favourable and that the site will be obtained.

His Excellency the Governor has readily consented to preside at the meeting, and the Naval and Army Commanders-in-Chief also have signified their intention of attending. Every effort is to be made to start the work of establishing the club without delay, in order that it may be ready in the shortest possible time.

Attention is directed to an advertisement in this issue announcing the 37th al fresco sale of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul for December 5, under the patronage of H.E. the Governor. Donations of souvenirs for the various stalls will be gratefully received and acknowledged if sent to Messrs. J. M. Alves and Co.'s offices, La Charter Road.

Mr. C. F. Mason, who appeared this morning before Magistrate Smith to defend a Chinese charged with the unlawful possession of 32 lottery tickets in Pottinger Street, submitted that there was nothing on the tickets found in his client's pocket to prove that they were lottery tickets. The tickets, he said, were given to his client in a bundle by a friend who asked him to deliver them to a man in the Central Market. The Magistrate found the defendant guilty, and imposed a fine of $50. The tickets will be destroyed.

MEXICO STEAMSHIP CO.

ALTERATION OF OBJECTS.

PETITION TO THE SUPREME COURT.

In the Supreme Court this morning before the Acting Chief Justice, Mr. Justice Gompertz, application was made by the Mexico Steamship Company Limited for confirmation by the Court of the alteration of the objects of the Company, by the addition, to the memorandum paragraphs of:

1. To lend money to such persons, firms or companies and on such terms as to the Company may seem fit and expedient, and in particular to customers and others having dealings with the Company.

2. To give any such guarantee or indemnity on such terms and upon such security or no security as to the Company may seem fit and expedient. The application was made under Section 10 of Ordinance 58 of 1911. Mr. W. H. Drummond, instructed by Messrs Wilkinson and Grist, appeared for the petitioners.

The company was incorporated in 1913, and operates steamships between Hongkong and Mexico. It is capitalized at $300,000, with 600 shares of $500 each, all fully paid.

His Lordship called attention to the fact that the advertisements of the proposed step were not supported by affidavits, as was the practice, and expressed the opinion that the proposed alterations were too wide, and if allowed, might come within the Money-Lenders Ordinance. He said he would propose a modification of the alteration, and would adjourn the case until to-morrow, to permit of the view of the Company being obtained.

DOG THAT REMEMBERED.

REMARKABLE INCIDENT.

RETURN HOME AFTER 5 YEARS.

A large poodle has just found his way back to his master in Paris in extraordinary circumstances. In 1914 the owner took his family and the dog to Armentieres, where they lived until the town was evacuated. Leaving the animal with a neighbour there, they returned to their Paris home in the Malakoff quarter outside the city gates. There the other day, after five years' absence, they found the dog sitting at the door of their second-story flat, tired but overjoyed at finding them again.

How he got there no one can say. Had he followed some English soldier to the city? Where had he been picked up the scent? His owner cannot guess.

We understand that the Catholic monthly publication Religios e Patria, founded in 1914, but unavailably suspended for the last six months, will appear again some time this week.

On seeing the report purporting to come from Liverpool that Chinese coal was being sent and had actually arrived at Newcastle to compete with British coal I at once made inquiries, writes the London correspondent of the Liverpool Journal of Commerce. I am assured that no vessel carrying coal from China had arrived in the Tyne up to recently. Prosecuting inquiries further I find that most people in the coal trade there scout the idea as being impossible. It may be possible for the Chinese coal to find a market in Scandinavia, just as American coal has done, but to sell against British coal at home is out of the question with home prices as they are. Recently, I am informed, several American boats with coal cargoes for Denmark have called at the Tyne, to bunker, and possibly a vessel from China may do the same, but that is all.

FANLING GOLF.

CHAMPIONSHIP FINAL.

R. L. D. WODEHOUSE THIS YEAR'S WINNER.

BY "JIGGER."

The Course at Fanling was in excellent condition on Sunday when the final of the Championship was played between R. L. D. Wodehouse and W. D. Kraft. The rain which fell during the week softened the going and the greens especially were much improved as they were all able to be rolled and were remarkably true.

It was a contest between age and youth; between a hard hitter who though erratic off the tee had wonderful powers of recovery, and a steady straight player who hits a ball rather under the average for length. The younger man won and had a good deal of luck on his side or the match would have gone farther than it did.

The Champion is not a pretty golfer and does not have an easy style; but he gets there and is deadly with some of his iron clubs. He has a driving iron in his bag which carries him further than the average player's brassie and he did some clever work with his mashie. He was fortunate in his recoveries from the rough; as he might easily have been in impossible lies from some of his tee shots, but on every occasion was lying clear. There is a good deal of cricket about some of his shots and it was a real cricket shot between point and cover from Sandy's pulpit that proved his luckiest stroke of the match. Instead of being in difficulties he found himself on the fairway of the 6th hole and was able to pitch nicely on to the green for a half to win the match.

Kraft carried the sympathies of most of the spectators principally because of his years and because this was his last Championship in Hongkong. He began splendidly and with a little luck might have been 4 up in the morning. In fact there was something sensational about his opponents 3 at the Bamboo. Both players were afraid of the greens and were short-time and again. Eventually when Kraft did give the hole a chance he had cruel luck and the ball came out again. This seemed to worry him for a long time. Wodehouse time and again seemed to half hit his putts, but they usually managed just to creep in and the little cut imparted at times accidentally made all the difference. Kraft started off in the afternoon under a very heavy handicap, being 5 down and though he never looked like winning I expected to see the match go to the 16th at least. The duties of umpire were carried out very efficiently by Mr. T. W. Hill and a fair crowd followed the finalists both morning and afternoon. Wodehouse's record in the Competition is a splendid one as he has knocked out 3 of the very best players in the Colony in T. W. Hill, R. M. Smith, and B. C. Morgan.

DETAILS OF PLAY.

Wodehouse had the honour from the first tee and pulled his drive slightly being just short of the pot bunker. He took too much turf with his mashie and put his third over the green. He putted poorly and the hole cost him 6. Kraft on the other hand played the hole perfectly and got a pretty 4. He was nicely on with his second and laid his approach putt dead.

At the second Wodehouse again pulled his drive into the rough but got a good lie and ought to have been able to carry the bunker. He failed however and was badly in. His first attempt to get out was a failure but playing two more laid his ball 2 yards from the pin only to miss the putt. Kraft took his brassie for his second and just cleared the bunker. He ran up very short but a good approach putt enabled him to win in 5-6.

At the short third Kraft was just on near edge of green while Wodehouse hit the hill side and kicked badly uphill, his ball coming to rest at the foot of a small shrub. Playing the odd he surprised everyone by laying his ball dead, a foot from the pin. This seemed to unnerve Kraft whose putt was 6 yard short and to the left of the hole. He gave the hole every chance for a half but a bad line cost him the hole in 4-3. Kraft was now 1 up.

At the fourth Wodehouse had a fine long drive right up the fairway but again took too much ground with his mashie and duffed his third with the same club. He had a pretty run up with his next but it was too late as Kraft who was just short of the green with his second laid his third dead and won nicely in 4-5 making him 2 up.

At the fifth Kraft sliced into the edge of the rough with his tee shot; but got splendidly on and was on in 2. His putting was again at fault and failing to be up the hole cost him 5. Wodehouse, who had a good straight drive, laid his mashie shot nicely on and just passed the hole for a 3, winning comfortably in 4-5, which made him 1 down.

At the long 5th hole Wodehouse sliced into the rough and had a heavy lie below the rest house. He dug it out as only a very strong player could do; but put his third too much to the right of the green with his next. He chipped on with his 4th nicely and ought to have got a 5 but missed his putt.

Kraft hooked his drive but it was lying well and with his cleek he got it well up the fairway. It took him 4 to reach the green however and he was lying almost the same distance from the hole as his opponent. However he managed to get his putt down and won in 5-6 making him 2 up again.

At the 6th Kraft pulled his tee shot and found his ball unplayable. He picked up and teed on the fairway under a penalty of 2 but failed to let anywhere near the pin and gave up the hole as Wodehouse was nicely on with his drive, and was almost certain to get a 3.

At the 8th Wodehouse playing for safety took his driving iron and got a long straight ball. Kraft also had a good drive and then both were short with their mashie shots. Kraft ran up to within 4 feet of the pin with his 3rd and Wodehouse putted short about the same distance. Kraft now missed what ought to have been an easy putt and left his ball where should have given Wodehouse a good lie. He heeled his putt however and a badly played hole resulted in a half in 5.

The 9th hole ought to have suited Wodehouse and he should have picked up here. He pulled his drive up the hill and had a nasty stance for his second which he did not get away. He took his brassie to his third when his ball was lying on the downward slope of the hill, when he ought to have used his iron with the result that he duffed his shot and was short with his mashie for 4.

Kraft with a drive and a brassie down the fairway just managed to get on with his iron in 3 and with Wodehouse playing 2 more ought to have won the hole. Kraft however again failed at a 4 foot putt and a half in 6 resulted. At the turn Kraft was thus 1 up. Wodehouse had a good tee shot at the 10th while Kraft was on the top of the ridge with his drive. Wodehouse duffed a brassie shot and forcing with his iron sliced his 3rd into the rough.

He got well out with his mashie and hit the edge of the hole but did not go down with his 5th. Kraft got well out of trouble with his second but pulled his third and was in the rough pin high with his 4th. Bad putting again cost him the hole in 7-6 and the match was all square.

At the 11th Wodehouse tried to carry the hollow and was short with a pull. He got a heavy lie and not only did not get out but gave himself a bad stance for his 3rd. He put his 4th just short of the green and chipped on too strongly the hole costing him 6. This was good enough to win the hole however as Kraft who ought to have played the hole dog-leg fashion got down below and with a poor second had to chip up on to the fairway with his 3rd. Even then he might have got a half and just passed the hole with his putt taking 7. This was a very poor start for the second half and the older man seemed to have lost his nerve.

At the gem both had good tee shots; Wodehouse was on, pin high and Kraft just short in a little hollow to the right. Kraft chipped on a good deal short and Wodehouse laying his putt head won in 3-4 making him 2 up. The 13th was halved in 5 after Wodehouse who was in the rough with his second had made a fine recovery and almost holed a 20 foot putt for a 4.

Kraft ran over the hole with him 4th or he might have won it. Wodehouse had a magnificent tee shot from Sandy's Pulpit and pitched on so well that he looked like getting a 3. He putted too strongly however and took 4. Kraft was short with his second after a good drive and had a very bad line with his approach putt. Taking 3 putts cost him another hole in 5-4 and he was now 3 down.

At the 15th Wodehouse increased his lead to 4 up by winning in 5-6. He was in the rough with a pulled drive but a splendid recovery enabled him to have a chance for a 4. Kraft put his third on the back of the green hard against the bank and had a very difficult stance. He got out much too strong and his 5th went into the hole and came out again.

Wodehouse took his driving iron again at the 16th but though he played along the side of the hill the ball did not come down as expected. He only half hit his mashie and was short with his putt but managed to get a 4. Kraft's drive was very short and his second too strong but his 3rd, a long putt almost went in. A half in 4 was the result.

At the 17th Wodehouse had a raking drive but he again failed with his brassie. He ran up poorly and was short with his 4th. However he managed just to crawl in with his 5th.

Kraft had two good shots and played his third on to the high ground to right of green, where it kicked nicely on. His putt was very short and he left himself with an 8 foot putt for a half. He holed this however and the players went to the 18th tee with Wodehouse still 4 up.

Kraft was short with his 2nd as he was unfortunate to get a soft lie which prevented him taking his brassie. He was over with his 3rd and did not get back, while Wodehouse played the hole nicely for a 4 to make him 5 up before Tiffin.

THE AFTERNOON ROUND.

In the afternoon the first hole was halved in 4 after Wodehouse had had a chance with a 7 foot putt for a 3. At the second hole Wodehouse got into the rough as the result of a pulled drive and after getting out well put his mashie shot into the bunker. He did not get out and gave up the hole as Kraft was nicely on in 3.

At the third Kraft pitched on beautifully and was within 18 yards of the pin with his tee shot. He putted short and then missed a 3 foot putt for a half and lost in 4-3. Wodehouse ran his second up to within a foot of the hole much in the same way as in the first round. The 4th was halved in 5 and then Wodehouse won the next after being in the rough and getting on in 2. This made him 6 up with 13 to go.

At the 14th Wodehouse again pulled into trouble and again got well out. A good third putt him on the green with the like. Both putted badly and a half in 6 resulted. Kraft made no mistake about the 7th this time and was nicely on with his drive. He putted to within 2 feet of the hole and won in 3-4 making Wodehouse 5 up and 11 to play. At the 8th the balls were lying side by side from the drives and then Wodehouse got on the left side of the green with his second but putted too strongly. Kraft's third got a nasty kick in the wrong direction and he just missed a putt for a 4. The hole was halved in 5. At the turn Kraft with two good shots was below the green with his 3rd.

Wodehouse pulled his drive and sliced his second but was splendidly on with his 3rd. Kraft holed out with his mashie amidst applause and Wodehouse just failed to get a half.

At the 10th both sliced their drives but Wodehouse got a good second. Kraft was well up the fairway in 3 and stabbed the ball on nicely with his 4th. He missed his putt and then had to play a half stymie. However he screwed in nicely and won in 6-7. Wodehouse was now 3 up and 8 to play.

Both played the 11th hole dog-leg fashion this time and a half in 5 resulted.

At the Gem Kraft met with misfortune which probably cost him the match. He took a light iron from the tee with the wind against him and was just short. His ball hit the bank a few feet from the top and got down below. Wodehouse was beautifully on and Kraft after trying to get up in vain, gave him the hole. This made the younger man 4 up and 6 to play. With a good straight drive and a long 2nd Wodehouse was just below the 13th green and chipped on nicely. Kraft pulled his drive and got a bad stance for his second, which he put into the rough on the other side of the fairway. This cost him the hole and Wodehouse was now down 5 up.

From Sandy's Pulpit Wodehouse had a very bad slice which seemed to put him out of it completely. However he found his ball on the 6th fairway and playing a good second was able to get an easy half in 4 to win the match by 5 up and 4 to play.

OPIUM SEIZED.

POLICE RAID JUNK.

DISTRICT WATCHMAN IMPLICATED.

About 8 p.m., on Saturday, Inspector Willis and some foke who had boarded a trading junk at Kennedy Town in search of contraband, discovered 54 tals of raw non-Government opium and 212 rounds of revolver ammunition. The searchers were about to depart when a sampan was sighted making towards the junk. The police took cover and when the sampan came alongside boarded it. On board they found 33 tals of prepared non-Government opium. They arrested the three occupants of the sampan, one of whom was District Watchman No. 23 (Wong Kew).

This morning District Watchman No. 23, and the two sampan people were charged before Magistrate Orme with the unlawful possession of 33 tals of prepared non-Government opium.

Mr. J. H. Gardiner, who appeared for the sampan men, applied for a remand.

The Magistrate fixed the case for Wednesday at 11.30 a.m. Bail was at first refused but later when Mr. C. H. Lyson appeared for the district watchman it was allowed in the sum of $4,000.

The two junk foke were then charged with the unlawful possession, on board their junk, of 212 rounds of revolver ammunition and 54 tals of raw non-Government opium. Messrs. C. F. Mason and F. E. Nash appeared for the two defendants, respectively.

After evidence had been heard, Mr. Nash's client was discharged and the other defendant remanded until November 26 when Mr. Mason will open the defence.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

The Right Reverend Bishop Pozzoni is leaving the Colony to-day on a missionary visit and expects to be away for about ten days.

So popular has the Repulse Bay Hotel become, that the ball room accommodation is being doubled. The management announces also that Madame S. Belkovich and Mr. Paul Grey have been specially engaged for the Christmas week.

Slight damage was caused by a fire which broke out about 12.30 a.m., yesterday, in the kitchen of a house in Kwaiheung Street as the result of sparks from an overheated stove used for drying herbs setting alight the window frame. The alarm was promptly given and the fire brigade had no difficulty in putting out the flames.

Pleas of guilty were entered by three Chinese who were charged by Inspector Cockle before Magistrate Smith this morning with the theft of a pair of flannel trousers. The Inspector said that the first defendant was arrested at 3 o'clock this morning in Elgin Street because he was unable to give a satisfactory account of how he came by the trousers, which he then had in his possession. He was taken to the Central Station, where he gave information which led to the arrest of No. 2, who in turn gave information against No. 3. The first defendant, said the Inspector, was well known to him, having two previous convictions, and was famous in Wanchai as "malau chaf" (the small monkey). The Magistrate sentenced the first defendant to three months' hard labour and the other to three weeks each.

BRADBURY AND FINCHER DRAW.

Quite a good gathering of members and friends of the Civil Service Cricket Club was present on the Club's court yesterday afternoon to watch the match for the tennis singles championship of the Club between Mr. W. Fincher (holder) and Mr. B. W. Bradbury (ex-champion). More than ordinary interest was exhibited in the match because both contestants are very fine players. Bradbury was the Club's Singles champion for two years in succession and was last year defeated in the final by Fincher, who is the present holder of the title. Recently, these two met, and a very exciting match resulted in a win for Bradbury. The match started at 3.30 p.m. sharp, both players playing very carefully. The first set was a very hard fought one, and went into twelve games before Bradbury won, 7-5. Fincher, however, was not going to lose his championship without a struggle, and a bout in which some very pretty footwork and sound tennis was exhibited, took the set to 14 games before the decision went to the champion 8-6. The next set was an equally hard fought one, and went to Bradbury 7-5. The last set was played in falling light, but in spite of this, the keenness of the struggle was as enjoyable as ever, and a very strenuous set went to Fincher as a result of real hard work, 6-3. The struggle closed at 6.40 p.m., when it was so dark that it was impossible to continue. The match thus ended in a draw of two sets each, after very nearly three hours of continuous play. The match will be re-played on Sunday next, November 28, commencing at 3.15 p.m., when another keen struggle is assured.

RIFLE SHOOTING.

The Hongkong Police Rifle Club were at home to the Dockyard Recreation Club (Rifle Section) on Sunday on the range at King's Park. A very pleasant afternoon was spent by both sides and some good shooting was seen, the highest score being made by Mr. Carpenter of the Police viz: 126. Mr. Young of the Dockyard was next with 123.

The teams were as follows:—
Hongkong Police R.C.—Messrs Carpenter 126, Booker 120, Evans 116, Wilson 105, Maskell 96, Hoarshaw 84, Fraser 77, and Barnett 75. Total 799.

Dockyard R.C.—Messrs. Young 123, Drew 119, McGuigan 119, Crocker 113, Sears 112, Pritchard 110, Gill 107, and Nicholson 106. Total 909.

The Dockyard won by 110.

Inspector Patterson this morning charged a Chinese woman living in Hollywood Road, with the unlawful possession in her house of five tals of prepared non-Government opium. The defendant said that the opium was left in her house for safe keeping, by a friend who promised to call for it later. The opium was in a parcel, the contents of which defendant did not know. The Magistrate imposed a fine of $500, and ordered the confiscation of the drug. Later, Mr. Lyson mentioned the case explaining that he had just been retained for the defence but was not in possession of the particulars. After detailing the circumstances of the case, the Magistrate said that he would let the sentence stand, but if Mr. Lyson, after interviewing his client, had any new circumstances to put forward, day next, November 28, commencing he could apply for a rehearing.
